Topic Two: Relationship with the Earth

This topic explores our planet, the environment, and some of the ways humans impact the earth. For younger children, we have selected books that illustrate an appreciation for the earth and its inhabitants, while the books for older children explore ways to care for the environment such as recycling and reusing. For more books about our planet, please see our extended reading list on our website.

The joy of reading is one of the best gifts you can give your child. Reading together, even just a few minutes each day, encourages a life-long passion for reading and helps to establish healthy emotional bonds between parents and children. These books, carefully selected and recommended for children ages birth through 6, are readily available in Wake County libraries, bookstores, and online. We've also provided a recommendation for parent literature to support your understanding of your child's development.

Visit lucysbookclub.org to register your child as a member and to find additional information and resources on this and other topics related to healthy emotional development in early childhood. Also, visit lucydanielscenter.org to learn about other Center programs and events.
